Highlights

Recognized by Time magazine as one of the fifty leaders of the next century, Stephen Carter is one of America's leading public intellectuals.

The author of four novels and of seven critically acclaimed nonfiction books on law, ethics and politics, he has been shaping the national debate throughout his career on issues ranging from the role of religion in our politics and culture to the role of integrity and civility in our daily lives.

Stephen's most recent book is The Violence of Peace: America's Wars in the Age of Obama. It is a look at the implications of the military philosophy President Barack Obama has adopted through his first two years in office and what his views on war mean for America, now and going forward.

Carter's extraordinary fiction debut, The Emperor of Ocean Park, spent three months on the New York Times bestseller list and has appeared on bestseller lists in several European countries.

Stephen's fourth novel, Jericho's Fall, is a sophisticated, topical, thought-provoking thriller about issues ranging from the morality of intelligence operations to the meltdown of the world financial system. And it creates, in Beck DeForde, an unforgettable heroine for our turbulent modern age. His other acclaimed novels are New England White and Palace Council.

Stephen Carter is the William Nelson Cromwell Professor of Law at Yale University.

He served as a law clerk for two of the great veterans of the civil rights movement, including Justice Thurgood Marshall of the U.S. Supreme Court.

As a trustee for the Aspen Institute, he moderates seminars for business executives on the role of values in leadership.

Stephen is a contributor to Bloomberg View, the new opinion section of Bloomberg.com.
